SpongeBOOOOB! SQUARE PAANTS!

Hey kids, do you know how long it takes for audible delights to become greatest hits? Ten years, in fact. And now they're yours.
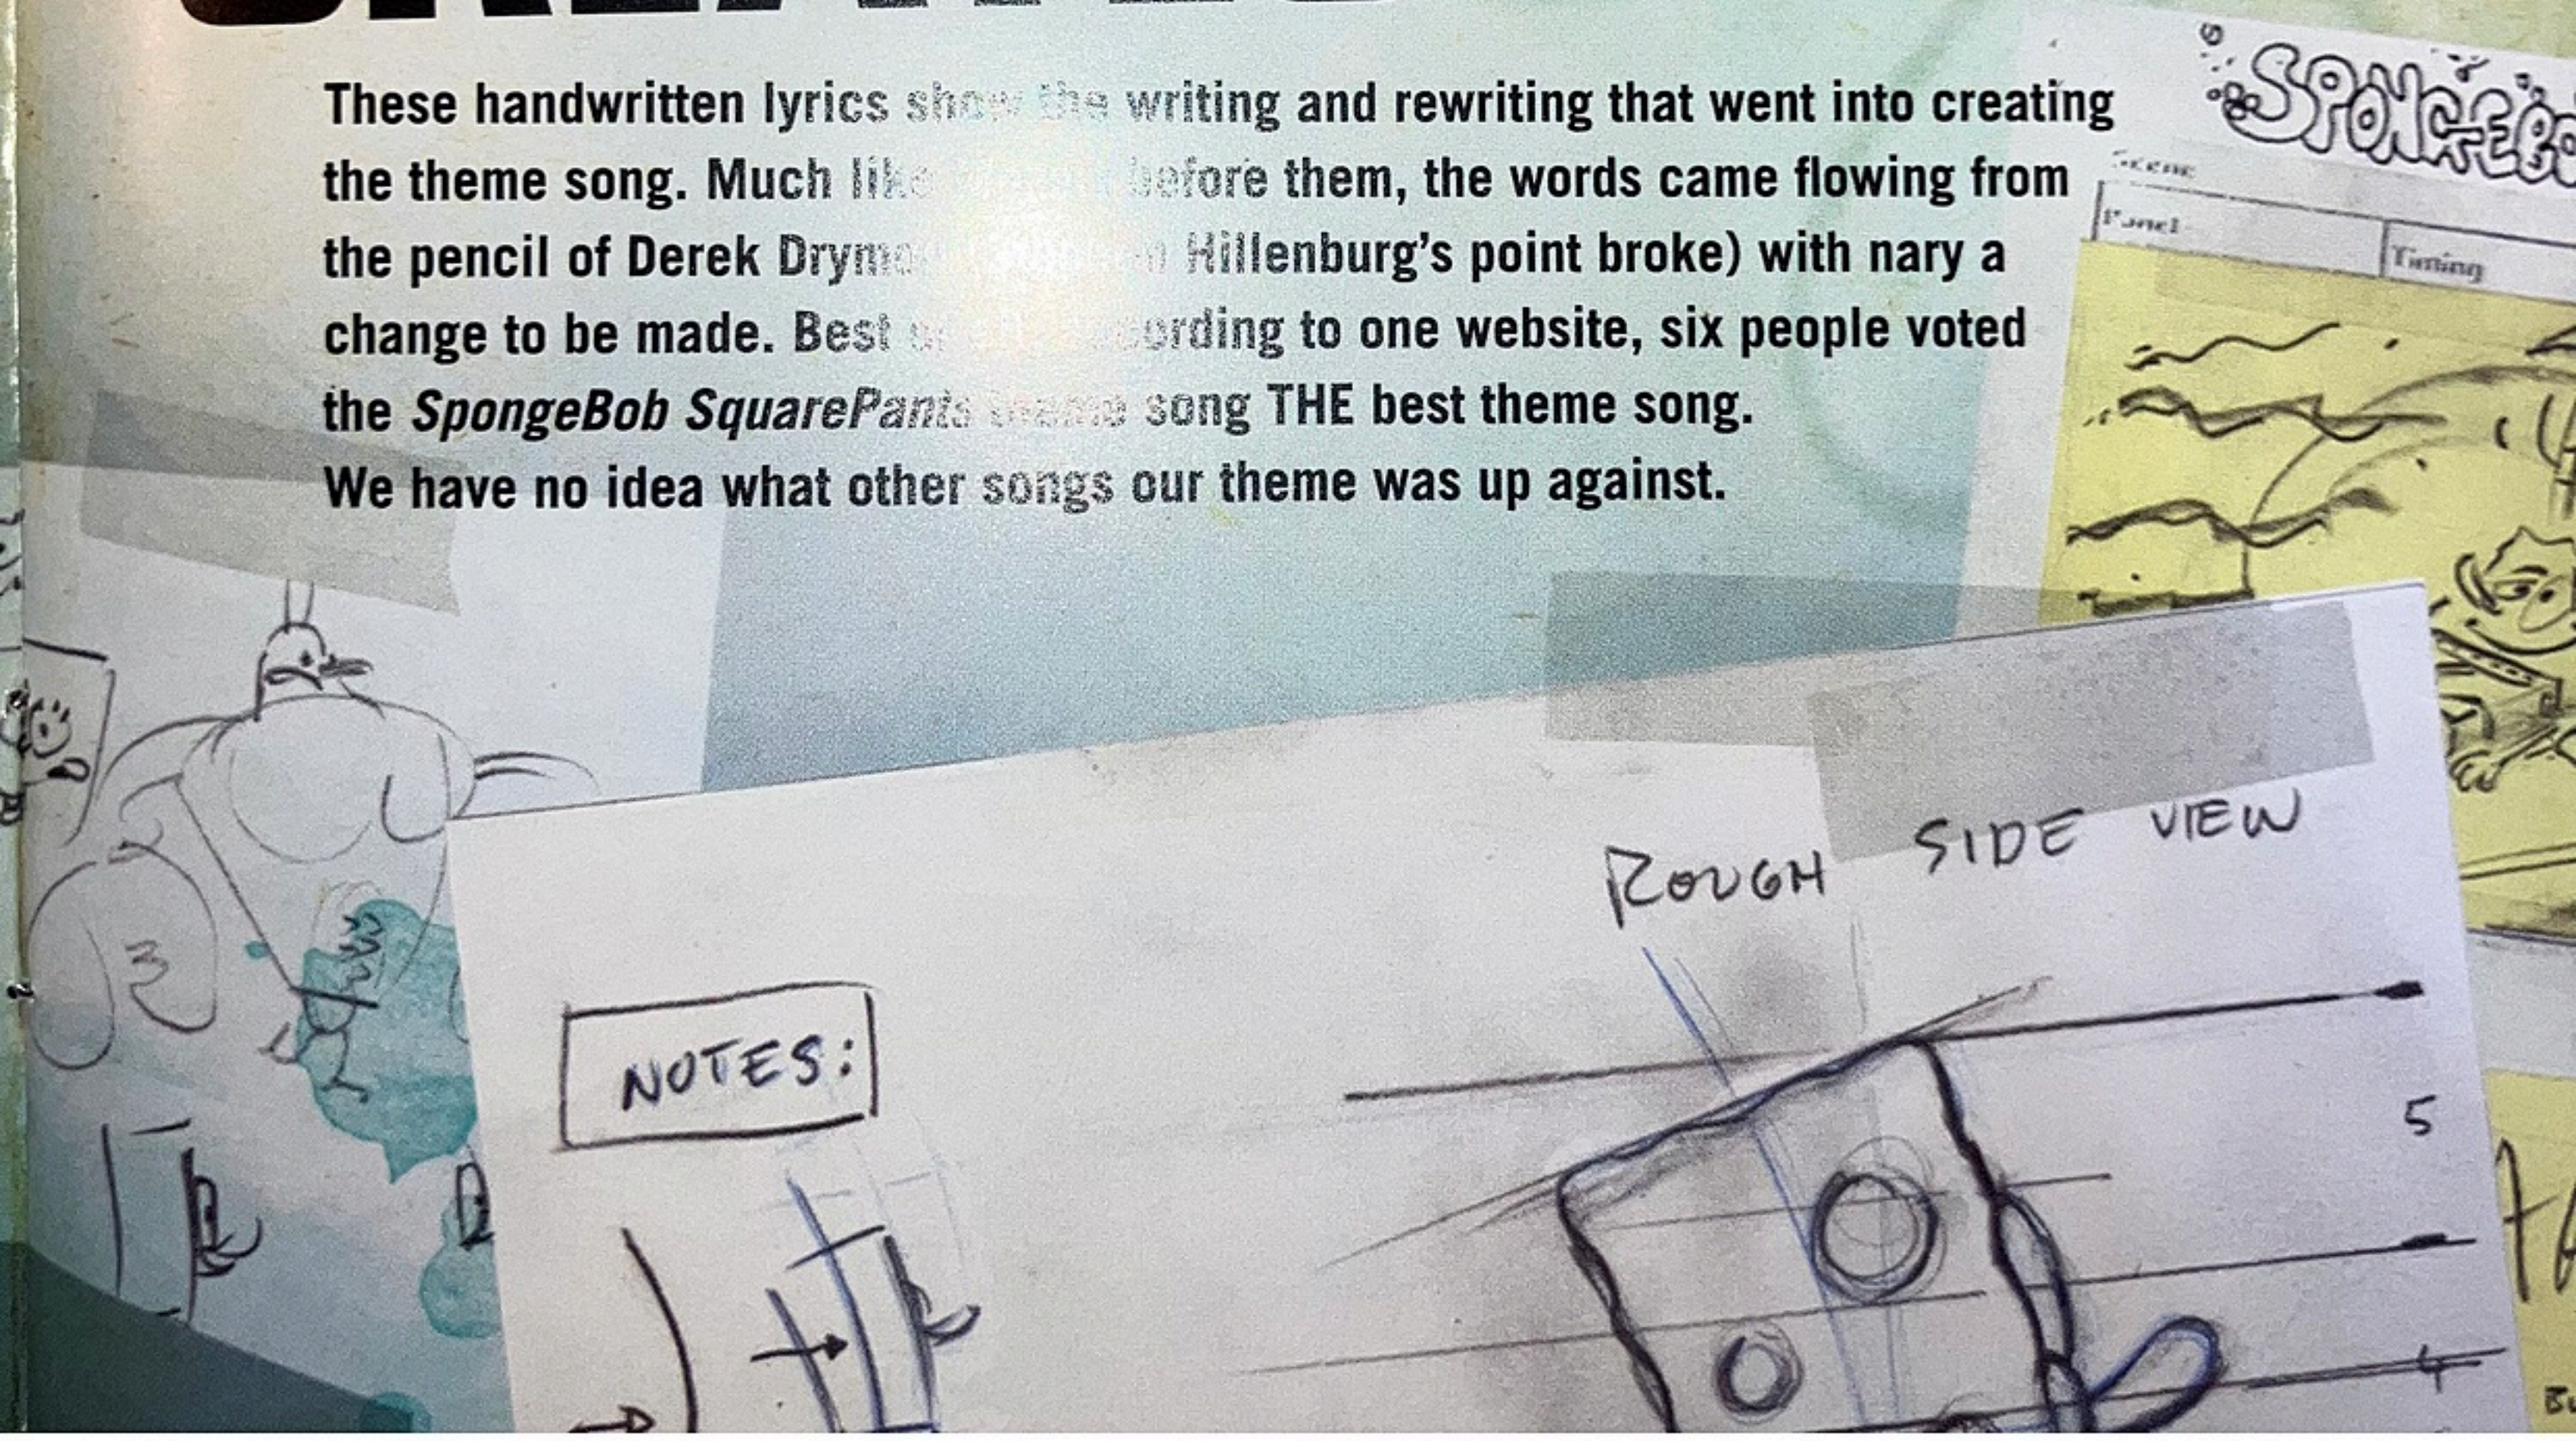
The finest songs ever sung in the deep blue sea.

SPONGEBOB SQUAREPANTS' GREATEST HITS!

These handwritten lyrics show the writing and rewriting that went into creating the theme song. Much like [illegible] before them, the words came flowing from the pencil of Derek Drym[illegible] Hillenburg's point broke) with nary a change to be made. Best [illegible] cording to one website, six people voted the SpongeBob SquarePants [illegible] song THE best theme song. We have no idea what other songs our theme was up against.



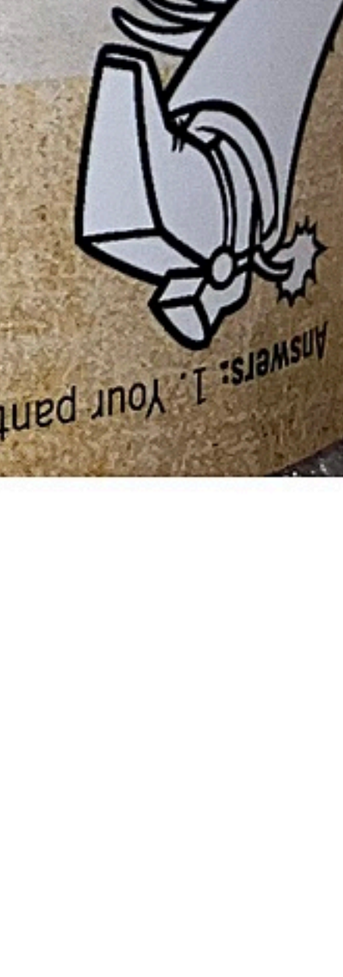
"IDIOT FRIENDS"

This song comes from the special episode "Pest of the West" during which

THE WORD "IDIOT" WAS SAID 17 TIMES.

Let's see how well you k[illegible]he song "Idiot Friends":

1. What do idiot frien[illegible]lp you pick up off the gro[illegible]
2. What do idiot friends put in you so you can save the town?
3. What does an idiot friend let you ride on?
4. What do SpongeBuck and Patrick have in common?



Answers: 1. Your pants 2. Thorns 3. His coffin 4. They're Idiot Friends

"THE BUBBLE SONG"

This hit appeared in the first-ever made-for-television SpongeBob movie, Atlantis SquarePantis. During this ode to the fragile, thin, globe-shaped, air-filled film, SpongeBob sings into a bubble microphone.

Did you know the world record for the most people contained within a single enclosed bubble is 19!? And prepare yourself, 'cause Bubble Week is just around the corner (check out the dates on the Internet!) and it's becoming a very pop-ular celebration!

"RIPPED PANTS"
The title song from the episode of the same name, in which Larry the Lobster makes his debut appearance and where we first see SpongeBob's spot-on impersonation of Squidward ("Could you keep it down? I'm trying to be boring.").
On the web, "Ripped Pants" singing credits go to "SpongeBob and The Losers." And hey, can you possibly guess the band that influenced the sound of this song? Can you??? HINT: '60s surf music by a band with BOYS who like the BEACH.
